

Uniting children with their mothers and fathers in prison.

2010 Annual Report

“There are two things we look forward to in here: 1. Getting out and 2. Get On The Bus.”

Letter from the Executive Director

Get On The Bus is like the mustard seed of the parables. From the seed of an idea to take children to visit their mothers in prison—an eyebrow raising thought at the time—Get On The Bus is yielding abundant fruit in the transformation of families, faith communities, and the correctional justice system. We always believed that the potential for systemic change lay quietly in the DNA of our elegantly simple program, and we are now seeing those changes take place in big and small ways.

We are changing the system. Get On The Bus now serves over 1,000 children who visit seven women’s and men’s prisons. In 2011, we will be adding San Quentin and Folsom Prisons to our list of destinations—two facilities that are the symbols of California’s prison system—the largest system in the nation. Both prisons requested to be expansion sites—a far cry from the resistance of early days.

As evidence of small, yet powerful signs of change, I share the following story. A Bus Coordinator from Sacred Heart Parish in Covina called to tell us that one of the fathers from the California Men’s Colony had just attended Sunday services accompanied by his family. The father told the Bus Coordinator that he had been released and wanted to join the church that brought his children to visit him in prison. He added, “You helped me when I needed it. How can I be of service at the church?” A remarkable story at many levels and as perfect an example of restorative justice as there ever was.

We joyfully share this good news and annual report with you. Your investment in our mission works miracles and we hope that you will again partner with us to bring even more families together in 2011.

Yours in service,

Sr. Suzanne Jabro, CSJ

What We Know . . . About The Families We Serve

Each year Get On The Bus surveys parents, caregivers, and children about their family circumstances and how Get On The Bus helps them to strengthen their family bonds. Here's what we learned about this year's families:

- 72.6% of the children served are African-American or Hispanic
- 74.8% of mothers are minorities and 89.6% of fathers are minorities
- 42.2% of people bringing children to see fathers were the men's wives
- 43.2% of people bringing children to see mothers were maternal grandmothers
- 50% of mothers and 38.2% of fathers report that they would NEVER see their children without Get On The Bus.
- The number one barrier families list as preventing children from visiting their parents is distance, followed by finances and transportation.
- 56% of mothers and 43% of fathers will be getting out of prison in 3 years or fewer—thus, the critical need to restore relationships in order to increase successful family reunification upon release.
- For the first time ever, a child participated in two Get On The Bus trips to visit both his mother AND father in prison.

Get On The Bus is a cost-effective intervention that eliminates the barriers to contact, normalizes child-parent interaction, ameliorates the negative impacts of parental incarceration on children, and helps to restore and maintain family relationships for post-release success.

	Children	Parents	Caregivers	Volunteers	# of Buses
Mother's Day Totals	586	268	250	841	29 + 1 plane
Father's Day Totals	701	327	298	289	31
TOTALS	1,287	595	548	1,130	60 + 1 plane

“The best part of Get On The Bus? The love and tears, the all day hugs, catching up, seeing their smiling faces and their eyes sparkle.”

– CIW mom

Count Down to Get On The Bus

Most children count down the days until Christmas or their birthday. Get On The Bus children have a very different wish.

Last January, Eddie learned that his grandmother had signed him up to visit his father at the Salinas Valley State Prison. Just two years old when his father went to prison, Eddie (now 10) had only been able to visit once in all that time and that visit took place behind glass.

As Get On The Bus approached, Eddie’s grandmother helped him draw a calendar and showed him how to “x” out each day that passed. All he could think about was hugging his dad—something he hadn’t done in eight years.

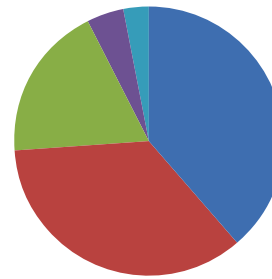

As the big day arrived, Eddie walked into the visiting room and recognized his father immediately. He threw himself into his arms to get the first of many, many hugs. As he got back on the bus he told his grandmother, “This was the best day of my life. I got to see my dad and talk man stuff.”

Financial Report

THANK YOU for investing in Get On The Bus and joining the movement to unite children with their parents in prison. Thousands of supporters and volunteers gave generously of their time, talent, and/or treasure to give the children we collectively serve a positive memory of a special day with their mother or father . . . a day that restores relationships, offers hope, and helps children to better cope with their loss, fear, and sadness. Your donation is priceless in the eyes of a child eager to see his or her parent.

In its 2009-2010 fiscal year, Get On The Bus raised $670,372 (unaudited figures) in cash and in-kind donations which enabled us to put more children on more buses than ever before.

“Being with my son during Get On The Bus I felt that in my mind I had left prison. It felt like we were in the park.”

Volunteers Make It Happen

Get On The Bus can only happen through the phenomenal efforts of more than 1,000 volunteers who gave of their time, hard work, talents and LOVE for the children, and families of Get On the Bus. Volunteers raised funds, met with families, coordinated logistics, took photos, counseled children and shared the Get On The Bus story in their circles of faith, family, and friendship. We are inspired by their dedication and blessed to call them partners in mission. With deepest sincerity, we thank you.

If you would like to volunteer for the 2011 Get On The Bus, click on the “Get Involved” tab at the top of our webpage, www.getonthebus.us.

Bus Coordinators

In Get On The Bus' decentralized grassroots model, local Bus Teams accept the mantle of responsibility and leadership for every aspect of “their” bus in an extraordinary expression of service. With tremendous gratitude, we recognize Bus Team Leaders from throughout the state.
